

PSC 3130: Women and Politics in the U.S.

Why women traditionally have been marginal to political life; the efforts of women in the past and today to change that fact; the problems that must be solved before women can translate their numerical strength into political power.

Credits: 3.0

Program: Political Science