

PSC 8300: American Party Politics

Organization and function of the American political party as contestant for political power, as broker for interest groups, and as architect of public policy; the national convention and the role of the party in the professional campaign.

Credits: 3.0

Program: Political Science